TO OPEN SECOND LOCATION IN COLLEGE PARK

Frank Bragg Continues Creative Blend of Past and Present in Food and Architecture

Atlanta, GA – 29 November 2016

Radial Café, Georgia's only three-star green restaurant, is bringing its "small carbon footprint and big local flavor" to a new neighborhood: College Park. Slated for Spring 2017, Radial Café College Park will continue the Candler Park tradition of serving fresh organic and local ingredients to graciously and playfully transform familiar dishes into imaginative favorites.

Frank Bragg, owner of Radial Cafés, extends that creative blending of past and present to the spaces he selects: "It's important to us that we honor tradition – in food and architecture – in the best way possible: making it relevant to people today. In Candler Park, the restaurant resides in a reclaimed 1906 dairy processing facility, and in College Park the new restaurant fills an historic storefront from 1910. Not only will the original 1917 Coca-Cola mural remain, but the furnishings will also reflect the heritage of the period, as interpreted with a contemporary design aesthetic."

The Zagat-featured, award-winning restaurant has earned a reputation for being on the leading edge of Southern green restaurants while maintaining a commitment to surprising, satisfying flavors and a warm, welcoming neighborhood ambiance. After all, what good is being green if the food is boring? The menus are ever-evolving as the seasons drive the ingredients and Radial Café blends richly-creative and diverse flavors into dishes that comfort and energize.

When seeking breakfast and lunch, international visitors, convention attendees and those working at local and leading companies such as Porsche and Delta will enjoy upscale, unpretentious food in a comfortable setting with attentive service. As day turns to evening, guests at nearby hotels will join College Park neighbors to relax, celebrate and savor craft cocktails and delightful dishes, creating a mix of diners as eclectic and diverse as those who already gather at the Candler Park location.

Bragg added: "Bringing people together in this way and introducing others to the unique charm of a community is part of being a true contributor of the neighborhoods in which Radial Cafés reside."

This commitment to warm and flavorful hospitality is grounded in the belief that the best-tasting food is also the greenest. Bragg, who purchased Radial Café in 2010 and whose dedication elevated it to a third green-star rating by 2011, puts it this way: "We intentionally choose purveyors committed to both quality and sustainability. This helps us ensure that our ingredients are truly green and predominantly organic – not just window-dressing."

Radial Café College Park will be located at 3725 Main Street, College Park, GA and serve breakfast, lunch and dinner as well as creative cocktails and a diverse wine and beer list. Radial Café Catering will also be offered to serve patrons in the area.
